Bridging Studies
In addition the one month bridging studies at the beginning of the programme provides a variety of short workshops to equip students and assist them to adapt to the new learning environment. They will be carried out prior to the commencement of the course for one month prior to the start of the academic year.

The aims of the bridging studies are to enable you to:

- Prepare for the transition from the Diploma Programme to the culture and pace of the BA (Hons) Programmes.
- Respond to set projects in your own personal way
- Develop your skills to respond creatively to a particular set of requirements
- Expand your range of research methodologies
- Encourage independent study
- Critically evaluate your own work

You will be set 4 projects to include:

- Technical Drawings
- Design Development
- Fashion Illustration
- Marketing Research

You will receive the assignments post interview for completion prior to the start of the academic year. You will be required to come to school for a briefing of the projects and will meet once a week (over a 4 week period) with the relevant tutors to discuss your progress. The work will not be formally assessed but will act as a vehicle for tutorial discussion at the beginning of the course.

This is a one year top up degree programme – you will study five modules which will culminate in a final catwalk show held at Nanyang Academy of fine Art. The programme provides you will the opportunity to study fashion design and fashion marketing in a creative Department of Fashion Studies, delivered by a creative and professional staff team. The duration is one year, or two semesters, allowing you to consolidate your skills and knowledge in Fashion Marketing theory and practice.

The programme (Level 3) allows you to realise your creative potential through challenging modules, external connections and extended learning opportunities, in order to prepare for a successful career in the fashion and creative industries or post graduate study. You will realise your potential as a fashion designer in the production of a fashion collection, together with the realisation of merchandising branding and research skills, identifying business opportunities as small fashion business entrepreneurs, or for existing brands, in the production of a business report.

Learning environment

Fashion and Marketing students work alongside BA (Hons) Fashion students in a shared creative space, in open plan studios, adjacent to the fashion production room. You will be assigned a personal work station which includes access to a tailors dummy or dress stand. These dedicated workspaces allow you to concentrate on your learning, and to spend time in the development of your own work and out of class activities. Lectures, practical and tutorial sessions are delivered in classrooms and technical workshops. CAD and CAM sessions are delivered in dedicated computer suites. You are encouraged to use the library facilities for research, self-study and small group discussions. These are all the available facilities to support students in their learning.

Teaching and learning methods in Fashion Studies area are varied. Most modules include lectures, tutorials, workshops, seminars and other forms of group work. Visits to museums, galleries, retailers, agencies, manufacturers and other relevant field work play an important part in the Fashion Design curriculum, and where appropriate there may be video and film screenings.

Teaching methods and learning outcomes of all Fashion Design modules are commensurate with the level of study. Descriptions of the individual modules provide information of teaching formats, learning outcomes, assessment methods and relevant criteria. Overseas field trips are organized to work renowned fashion capitals such as London and Paris to explore the cultural heritage, lifestyle and identity of European Fashion markets.

Assessment

All work is assessed regularly: Summative assessment is given at the end of each module. Formative assessment is given at regular tutorials, at the end of each module and at mid-term reviews. Assignments are verified by an External Examiner, double marked and moderated. There are feedback and appraisal mechanisms such as grades assigned for progressive development for every module. The purpose is to encourage students to take responsibility for their own learning, reflecting on their learning and progression.

Work experience/placement opportunities

- Project work

All assignments are problem-based. Projects are either practical (attending a specific design brief responding to a given problem) or theoretical (executing a written or formal presentation outcome). They are designed to enable and encourage students to develop individual, creative, academic potential and demonstrate individuality, flare and insight in research. There will be opportunities to work in groups to develop and enhance your skills in working with others.

Added value

The programme is delivered at Fashion Campus of Nanyang Academy of Fine Arts, located in a vibrant district being promoted by the Singapore Government as an artistic educational hub. Its strategic location town area allows easy access to visual and retail research. You will have excellent access to museums (Singapore Art Museum, National Museum), prime shopping area (Orchard Road), mega fabric store (Spotlight) and the National library, all within walking distance.

Quality

How we assure the quality of this programme

Before this programme started

Before this programme started, the following was checked:

- there would be enough qualified staff to teach the programme;
- adequate resources would be in place;
- the overall aims and objectives were appropriate;
- the content of the programme met national benchmark requirements;
- the programme met any professional/statutory body requirements;
- the proposal met other internal quality criteria covering a range of issues such as admissions policy, teaching, learning and assessment strategy and student support mechanisms.

This is done through a process of programme approval which involves consulting academic experts including some subject specialists from other institutions.

How we monitor the quality of this programme

The quality of this programme is monitored each year through evaluating:

- external examiner reports (considering quality and standards);
- statistical information (considering issues such as the pass rate);
- student feedback.

Drawing on this and other information, programme teams undertake the annual Review and Enhancement Process which is co-ordinated at School level and includes student participation. The process is monitored by the Quality and Standards Committee.

Once every six years an in-depth review of the whole field is undertaken by a panel that includes at least two external subject specialists. The panel considers documents, looks at student work, speaks to current and former students and speaks to staff before drawing its conclusions. The result is a report highlighting good practice and identifying areas where action is needed.

The role of the programme committee
This programme has a programme committee comprising all relevant teaching staff, student representatives and others who make a contribution towards the effective operation of the programme (e.g. library/technician staff). The committee has responsibilities for the quality of the programme. It provides input into the operation of the Review and Enhancement Process and proposes changes to improve quality. The programme committee plays a critical role in the quality assurance procedures.

The role of external examiners

The standard of this programme is monitored by at least one external examiner. External examiners have two primary responsibilities:

- To ensure the standard of the programme;
- To ensure that justice is done to individual students.

External examiners fulfil these responsibilities in a variety of ways including:

- Approving exam papers/assignments;
- Attending assessment boards;
- Reviewing samples of student work and moderating marks;
- Ensuring that regulations are followed;
- Providing feedback through an annual report that enables us to make improvements for the future.

Listening to the views of students

The following methods for gaining student feedback are used on this programme:

- Module evaluations and feedback questionnaires
- Student representation on programme committees (meeting two times a year)

Students are notified of the action taken through:

- Circulating minutes of the Programme Committee
- Providing details on the programme notice board
- Meeting with the BA course leader

Listening to the views of others

The following methods are used for gaining the views of other interested parties:

- Annual student satisfaction questionnaire
- Questionnaires to former students
- Industrial liaison committee
- Discourse with visiting practitioners
- Feedback from graduation show and exhibitions
