

2008-9 Graduate Seminars in Narrative, Discourse and Representation
The Centre for Narrative Research, UEL and
The Gender Institute, London School of Economics

All seminars take place on Tuesday evenings, 5.00-6.30pm, at the London School of Economics.

All welcome, especially graduate students. For further details contact Corinne Squire (c.squire@uel.ac.uk), or Hazel Johnstone (h.johnstone@lse.ac.uk). Details are also on the CNR website: <http://www.uel.ac.uk/cnr/home.htm>, and the Gender Institute website: <http://www.lse.ac.uk/depts/gender/narrative.htm>

October 7– Galit Ferguson, University of East London: Socially active or actively social? Web-audiencing of lifestyle television. D206 Clement House

November 4 –Mark Armstrong, Northumbria University: Quentin Crisp 'A Room in Chelsea': Absence and the abject in Quentin Crisp's fashioned/domestic binary. D311 Clement House.

December 2– Javier Saavedra, University of Seville and University of Nottingham: Changes in life narratives of persons with schizophrenia who live in supportive houses. D311 Clement House

February 3 – Siyanda Ndlovu, University of KwaZulu-Natal and University of East London: Narratives of Blackness: Questioning boundaries of time and space. Z132 St Phillips

April 7 Christina Scharff, Gender Institute, LSE: 'Men and women are very, very, very, very different': the reproduction of conventional heterosexual polarities in talk about gender and feminism. D311 Clement House

May 5 – Sarah Helsig, Kings College London: Biographic accounts of second-generation Finn-Germans D703 Clement House

June 2- Alexandra Zavos, Manchester Metropolitan University: Gender, migration and the anti-racist movement in Athens. G101, 20 Kingsway